

Fashion and Friends

Calling all Fashionistas! Join us for an exciting Valentine's Day workshop! We will dive into the art of weaving using a cardboard loom, creating our own fashion fabrics! As we explore this creative process, we'll groove and jam to popular songs by kid-friendly artists that celebrate love and romance. Imagine weaving while listening to catchy tunes from beloved artists like Taylor Swift, Justin Bieber, and Maroon 5. At the end of this engaging two-hour class, your child will proudly take home their very own woven masterpiece. Don't miss out on this unique and musical weaving adventure!

Genna Friedman has been a custom clothing designer for almost a decade.

She holds a BA in Fashion Design from Columbia College.

Genna is passionate about working with kids and fashion due to her deep appreciation for creativity and self-expression. She firmly believes that introducing children to the world of fashion not only nurtures their artistic abilities but also instills confidence and individuality.

Genna believes that igniting a love for fashion at an early age can have a lasting impact on a child's self-esteem and creativity, encouraging them to embrace their unique perspectives and talents in the world of design and aesthetics.
